

Critical Acclaim For
'15 to Life: Kenneth's Story'
By Nadine Pequenez

"Incredibly important."
—Melissa Harris-Perry, host, MSNBC

"Follows [Kenneth] Young's case while examining a social system that doles out sentences to juvenile offenders intended for the most dangerous criminals."
—Kathryn Shattuck, The New York Times

"Powerful. . . . Moving."
—Bob Herbert, host, "Op-Ed.TV," CUNY-TV, New York

"Harrowing. . . . Depicts a justice system that only perpetuates the sort of violence it was intended to keep in check."
—Nina Liss-Schultz, Mother Jones

"Top 5 Staff Pick."
—Christian Science Monitor

"Social-justice documentaries aren't always as engaging as you'd like them to be—they can be preachy, decidedly one-sided or two-dimensional. Not so for this little gem. . . . it does a fine job of using one very human story to make a larger point about the criminal justice system."
4 stars (out of 5)
—Erin Sullivan, Orlando Weekly

"Nadine Pequenez takes a straightforward look at both Kenneth's story and the imbalance in our prison system. It's a hard, sad story. . . . that perhaps can be fixed. . . . Heartbreaking."
—Lisa Derrick, FireDogLake
